

Scope

This policy statement applies to Occupational, Health and Safety stewardship and applies across all Cognizant entities.

Guiding principles

Cognizant is dedicated to protecting the Occupational health and safety (OHS) of all individuals connected to our operations, including associates, vendors, visitors, clients, and the communities we serve globally.

We:

- Strive to meet all applicable occupational, health and safety legal and regulatory requirements. The Global Environment Health and Safety (EHS) Center of Excellence team will evaluate OHS performance by monitoring ongoing performance results outlined in the guideline for OHS objectives and targets and through periodic management reviews with key business leadership.
- Follow laws and regulations and adopt our own standards where laws and regulations do not provide adequate controls.

We focus on:

- Risk assessments - Cognizant conducts formal occupational health and safety risk assessments and hazard identification and mitigation plans.
- Occupational, health and safety training - Cognizant facilitates occupational health and safety training programs for employees and contractors.
- Communication, incident reporting and investigation - We communicate OHS programs to Cognizant associates and interested parties, encouraging them to report any occupational health and safety concerns and to adopt OHS best practices. Cognizant has systems in place for reporting workplace incidents, near misses, and corrective actions, with active input from employees and, where applicable, their representatives.
- Continuous improvement - Cognizant drives continuous improvement in Occupational health, and safety, performance through audits, performance reviews, and key metrics. These efforts are supported by our executive management who review environmental, health and safety, and social matters.
- Compliance and certifications - Cognizant aligns fully with recognized occupational health and safety standards, including ISO 45001. Executive management formally endorses the implementation of this OHS policy statement, reinforcing our commitment to a safe and healthy work environment.
