Cognizant Privacy Notice

Last Updated: 31 December 2022

What is the purpose of this notice?

This Privacy Notice (“Notice”) outlines how Personal Information of clients, prospective clients, former clients, visitors, vendors and other third parties we interact with (“External Individuals”) is collected, managed and Processed by Cognizant. Cognizant is committed to handling the Personal Information of all External Individuals in an appropriate and lawful manner. This Notice sets out the minimum requirements for ensuring that the Personal Information of External Individuals is collected, used, retained and disclosed in a secure and compliant manner.

What other rules or notices apply?

In some cases, local laws and regulations that apply to the Processing of Personal Information may be more restrictive than this Notice. Where this is the case, the more restrictive requirements will apply. Where required by local laws, Cognizant will provide you with additional privacy notices or information. In addition, this Notice may be supplemented from time to time with more specific privacy information or notices, for example when you visit a Cognizant website, attend an event or use particular Cognizant apps or portals.

Contacts

Any questions, concerns or complaints about the operation of this Notice should be addressed to your relevant client partner, account executive, business development contact, procurement contact or Cognizant’s Data Protection Office (see Contact Us section below). This Notice may be updated from time to time. You can find the most up-to-date version of this Notice on our website at www.cognizant.com.

Who is this notice directed to?

Cognizant Privacy Notice
Why we need to collect your Personal Information

Purposes

Cognizant uses External Individuals’ Personal Information for a variety of purposes. The most common uses of Personal Information are:

- Managing client requests, projects and bidding for work;
- Marketing activities and market research;
- Managing vendor relationships and invoicing and determining eligibility of vendors including verification of references and qualifications and other background checks;
- Managing client relationships;
- Investigating complaints and issues;
- Organizing meetings and networking events;
- Business continuity management;
- Security and compliance with law, including health and safety requirements; and
- Developing resource plans to meet business demands.

In order to comply with legal and regulatory obligations and to the extent permitted or required by local law, and specifically to ensure that we can comply with applicable trade control, anti-money laundering and/or anti-bribery and corruption laws, we may carry out background screening checks on current and prospective clients, vendors and business partners, both pre and post contract. In addition to screening individuals and legal entities with whom we enter contracts, this screening may cover individuals such as directors, officers, sole traders, shareholders and other key stakeholders. The screening utilizes publicly available information, including government issued sanctions lists and media sources. The information obtained through background screening may include Personal Information regarding suspected or actual criminal behavior, criminal records or proceedings and unlawful behavior.

An extensive list of the purposes for which we may collect your Personal Information is set out in the table below. Where Cognizant wishes to use Personal Information for a new purpose that has not been notified to the External Individual, where required by law, Cognizant will notify the External Individual of the new purpose.

Legal Basis for Processing

Cognizant will Process Personal Information relating to External Individuals where it is required by law, necessary for the performance or administration of a contract, or where it has a legitimate business interest in doing so. Cognizant will Process Sensitive Personal Information where it is necessary for the purpose of carrying out a legal obligation or exercising specific rights of Cognizant permitted by local law. Cognizant will obtain your consent to Process your Personal Information where it is required to do so by local law, and where required, for any new or additional purpose. Under local law, to the extent that Processing is based on consent, External Individuals may be entitled to withdraw consent to the Processing of their Personal Information. External Individuals who wish to withdraw consent should follow the instructions received at the time of providing consent or contact us (see Contact Us section below).
The primary legal basis of Processing is set out in the table below.

To whom we give your Personal Information

Disclosure within the Cognizant group of companies. Cognizant is a global company and your Personal Information may be shared with or accessed by other companies within the Cognizant group.

Disclosure to third parties. Cognizant may also share your Personal Information:

- With clients and potential clients in the course of business and business development;
- With suppliers, subcontractors and service providers, to maintain an efficient and commercially viable business, including caterers and security contractors if you visit Cognizant's premises;
- With professional advisers and consultants;
- With legal advisors and external auditors for legal advice and to conduct business audits;
- With credit reference agencies and background verification agencies, to conduct credit checks and background verification and reference checks;
- With service providers for business continuity management and contingency planning in the event of business disruptions; and
- With prospective sellers or buyers and their advisers in the event that Cognizant merges, acquires or sells any business or assets.

The third parties with whom we share your Personal Information may in some instances independently determine the purposes and uses of your Personal Information (e.g., legal advisers and external auditors); in such cases, the recipient’s own privacy policy will govern their use of your Personal Information.

Disclosure without notification. There may be circumstances where Cognizant discloses Personal Information to third parties without notifying External Individuals. These circumstances could include:

- Where the information is publicly available;
- Where Cognizant is required to do so by law or by order of a court or tribunal, or where Cognizant has a good faith belief that such disclosure is reasonably necessary to comply with a legal obligation, process or request;
- Where it is alleged by a law enforcement authority that an External Individual is guilty of a criminal offence, or is civilly liable in a legal action, and Cognizant has a good faith belief that any disclosure is necessary to comply with a legal process or request.
- Where Cognizant is legally required to or has a good faith belief that such disclosure is reasonably necessary to protect the rights, property or safety of Cognizant, its employees, contractors, job applicants, vendors, clients, customers of clients, third parties or the public as required and permitted by law.

In the preceding year, we have not sold your Personal Information or shared it with a third party for cross-context behavioral advertising.

International transfer of your Personal Information

Due to the global nature of Cognizant’s business, Personal Information may be shared, disclosed and transferred between the various Cognizant group companies where such transfers are required for legitimate business reasons. Where Cognizant transfers your Personal Information internationally, which may include transferring Personal Information outside your country of domicile, Cognizant will comply with applicable legal requirements. Where required we will sign a data transfer agreement with the recipient of the Personal Information, which in the case of Personal Information originating from the European Economic Area, Switzerland and the United Kingdom, may include the Standard Contractual Clauses.

How we monitor your activities

Where permitted by local law, Cognizant may monitor the activities of External Individuals at Cognizant or client facilities using CCTV. Where required, signage will indicate which areas are subject to such monitoring. Recorded images are destroyed in accordance with our retention policy, unless they are required for criminal or other investigations (including circumstances where we are required to provide such information to clients for the purposes of their investigations).

In addition to the above and where permitted by local law, Cognizant may monitor its company assets, including computers, telephones, fax machines, voice mail systems, etc., and its networks, including intranet/internet access, email, applications, etc., and the activities of External Individuals while accessing or using such office equipment or networks as set out in our Acceptable Use Policy. If you have further questions, please contact us (see Contact Us section below).

How long we retain your Personal Information

Cognizant will retain Personal Information for as long as necessary for fulfilling the purpose or purposes for which it was collected. This generally means that Personal Information will be deleted at the latest 6 years after collection unless longer retention is required for other valid reasons such as compliance with legal obligations, to resolve disputes or enforce contracts.

How we protect your Personal Information

Cognizant implements appropriate security measures designed to prevent unlawful or unauthorized Processing of Personal Information and accidental loss of or damage to Personal Information. Cognizant maintains written security management policies and procedures designed to prevent, detect, contain, and correct violations of measures taken to protect the confidentiality, integrity, availability, or security of your Personal Information. These policies and procedures assign specific data security responsibilities and accountabilities to specific individuals, include a risk management program that includes periodic risk assessment and provide an adequate framework of controls that safeguard your Personal Information.

Cognizant Privacy Notice
What are your rights?

Certain Cognizant systems may allow External Individuals to check and update certain Personal Information. Where applicable, it is the responsibility of all External Individuals to ensure that their Personal Information is kept up-to-date. Where permitted under applicable laws, External Individuals have the right to access their Personal Information, including to know the specific pieces of Personal Information that we collect, use and disclose, to verify and challenge the accuracy and completeness of their Personal Information and have it corrected, amended or deleted if inaccurate and, in limited circumstances, object to Processing of their Personal Information or ask for Processing to be restricted. Cognizant may require External Individuals to provide reasons or evidence to justify the amendment of Personal Information held by Cognizant. In addition, where applicable, External Individuals can ask for their data to be moved to another controller or be provided in a portable format. Where Cognizant is Processing Personal Information on the basis of consent, External Individuals can withdraw their consent at any time. However, please note that if you withdraw your consent, you might not be able to use services or features that require collection or use of such Personal Information. External Individuals can exercise these rights by contacting us per the Contact Us section below. External Individuals can also unsubscribe from marketing sent by Cognizant at any time by following the instructions received in the relevant marketing communication. We will not discriminate against you for exercising these rights.

We respond to all requests we receive from External Individuals wishing to exercise their data protection rights in accordance with applicable data protection laws. Complying with all or part of your request may be denied or limited by Cognizant if it would violate another person’s rights and/or as otherwise permitted by applicable law.

Before responding to a request, we reserve the right to verify and authenticate your identity and the information that your request relates to. Cognizant may ask for your: (a) First, Middle (if available), and Last Name; (b) Physical Address; (c) Month/Year of Birth; (d) Valid Email Address; and (e) Valid Telephone Number.

Authorized agents will be required to submit a written authorization document that includes your name, address, telephone number and valid email address, signed and dated by you, appointing the individual as your authorized agent, to act on your behalf. Cognizant may also request you to verify your own identity with Cognizant and confirm that you have provided the authorized agent permission to submit the request. For the safety and security of your information, requests submitted to Cognizant by an authorized agent will require a direct method of communication, preferably a valid email address, with you, to fulfill the request. We may deny a request from an authorized agent who does not submit sufficient proof to act on your behalf.

If an archival copy of your Personal Information is required to be retained by applicable law after receiving a request for deletion or closure of your account, we will follow the statutory term for such a retention.
